The young gradually begin to understand and accept the challenges in life and do prepare to undertake activities to enhance their personal and community development when values like compassion, Volunteerism, Patriotism, entrepreneurship, in attitude to positive thinking among others are imparted to them. The adults (parents) will for once accept the role their young ones are playing in helping the society in which they live especially their peers, the vulnerable, the elderly and the poor to realize that life is a battle. Battle is won by those who feel they can and strive to succeed. The rippling effects of their positive attitudes can cause a change in their communities among their peers, the poor and those who hitherto felt there is no hope for them to meet the challenges in life, there will be programs to meet with successful entrepreneurs who they will select as their role models to them from

Modern day youth of India lives in the most interesting phase of the history. As the India economy went globalized and the internet is already an integral part of our lives, we have fairer chances of making it big than any of the previous generation.

The youth is considered to be the best asset of any country and investment in the human resources promises flabbergasting returns forever, if we are to develop the citizens for a better nation tomorrow, we are supposed to not only develop their talent but also recognize and counter the challenges and counter the challenges Indian youth is facing in present day.

Let us now have a look at these challenges that are faced by the young brigade of mother India

Peer Pressure -

Blame it on the way India societies are crafted or any other possible factors peer pressure is one of the biggest challenges faced by youngsters. The generation gap has widened to an extent that the views of the people of two generations repel each other.

The varying interest of the young adults and high expectations of the parents and relatives mar the spirit of growth as a whole. This acts as a check on the enthusiasm of young mind leading to waste of the time and resource.

The elders need to understand that a little space and trust shown in them will open the doors of the opportunities for the youngsters. At the same time, Children need to understand that parents care. There is no harm in learning from their experiences and the wisdom.

United Nations Organization (1995:11) therefore are both a major human resource for development and key agents for social change, economic development and technological innovation. Mobilizing the creativity and passion of young men and women, and recognizing the unique perspective of youth on their current and future needs are quickly becoming national and international priorities.

Globally youth are eager to contribute their quota through investment of their desire to be absorbed into socio economic system in order to change the old order.

How do you do it -

Has facilitated the formation of a youth group will take through series of seminars, talks, work shops to sensitize, build their capacity and prepare them for challenges in life.

Develop the interests and capabilities of these young ones through capacity building training acquired invite. Parents of these young ones, interact with them and explain interest and aspirations as they have prepare them to reach out to show the skills acquired by organizing seminars and delivering speeches, to talks, planning workshops on their own in schools, communities and other planned activities.(Laurene Powell 2017)

Impact -

Parents increase their understanding about the interests aspirations of their children without imposing anythings on them while the young shares their interests with their communities and also assisting interested parties in likewise manner to identify their interests and capabilities and building upon it . There are occasional recreational activities in which parents and other adults will be invited to take part. It is all aimed at exposing and fostering a good relationship between the young and their adults to the challenges in life which awaits especially the young. (Jack Morphonios 2008)

Ethical Action -

It is interesting to note that most often only few of the young ones who are found in remote or rural areas or are born to poor parents or do not have parents at all think they can make any headway in life through education. Majority of them only pray to complete their basic education. Those who get the chance even to enter the secondary see themselves as more fortunate but even without a future. Since all they end up doing may not be as result to the secondary school they attended. With this innovation, the young are or will realize their potentials and the various opportunities available to them group to move from their current position to as livelier one where they can have assess to information and the good things in life. Thus the meeting their role models will serve a very good purpose in building their hope for the future.

Cast -

The youth are a major source of human capital and key agents for socio cultural, economic and political development as well as technological innovation worldwide. Their imaginations, ideas, energies and visions are essential for the continuing development of societies. Their training, development, intellectual prospective and productive abilities are key determinants of the progress and future of societies.
